I heard that Waltz's 'Man, the State, and War' was dense yet I foolishly did not heed such warnings. Waltz uses three lenses to understand why war occurs: the individual, the state, and the international arena.

Man, the State, and War: A Theoretical Analysis by Kenneth ...

In 'Man, the State and War' by contrast he provides a history of different views on the causes of war - human nature, the form of government (e.g democracies/republics thought to be less likely to start wars than dictatorships/monarchies), or the nature of the international system (anarchic in the sense that there is no authority or power above states to judge which is the aggressor and punish aggressors).

Man, the State, and War: A Theoretical Analysis - Kindle ...

Man, state structures, and the international system are all responsible for the happenings of war. Viewing any war in history presents a complex picture and it is not possible to determine the exact cause of the war. Many theories have been put forward concerning the causes of the Second World War.
